

Responsive design

web design technique that seeks the correct display of the same page on different devices.

* What is responsive design?

It tries to resize and place the elements of the web so that they adapt to the width of each device, allowing a correct visualization and a better user experience.

the responsive design allows you to reduce development time, avoid duplicate content, and increase virality

It is characterized by

It tries to resize and place the elements of the web so that they adapt to the width of each device, allowing a correct visualization and a better user experience.

Allows you to reduce development time.

avoid duplicate content

increases the virality of the content

Responsive web design is consolidated as one of the best practices in web design today.